

Abstract

A medical record binder to contain medical records having front and back covers hinged to a spine. A holder for records is coextensive with and is secured to the spine.

- 5 The holder is formed as a loop having an elongated opening through which medical records may be secured.